ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The CCIU's E3 Re-Entry Program empowers second-chance citizens with entry-level manufacturing skills, creating a direct pathway into the manufacturing industry. The program incorporates cognitive behavioral therapy and job readiness skills that equip individuals with the abilities to maintain long-term employment. After completing the program, graduates participate in a career fair with companies who are hiring second-chance citizens, followed by one year of follow-up support.

Participants will receive 45 hours of basic manufacturing training (blueprint reading, basic shop math, basics of measurement and equipment, and soft skills), 25 hours of cognitive behavioral therapy and 45 hours of job readiness training.
